'Emile Zile is an Australian artist of Latvian descent, working with photography, video and live performance, responding to the burgeoning environment of signs and slogans. The power of his art lies in taking this Media and mediating it even further. Nothing is as it seems. Images are deformed and reworked, thus reinterpreting the languages and codes of one way channels. He finds a new sense, often using black humour to provoke wry smiles.'

– Joni Taylor

Emile Zile has appeared on Australian national television to up-stage a game-show host, installed photographic portraits of Jerry Springer Show audience members in a gallery and produced live video for a hybrid performance in Guangzhou, China; using appropriated 18th century Chinese erotic illustrations, 'Apocalypse Now' the film and contemporary American black metal.

This event concludes his three-month residency at Het Wilde Weten.

Hij nam mij, m'n broer en m'n moeder
overal mee naartoe.

Mijn papa was m'n held.
Hij stond altijd voor me klaar.
